It is the abundance of opportunities to teach, educate, heal and thereby impact the lives of others that draws me to the field the Medicine. My passion to excel and improve clinical medicine and patient care led me to identify Nephrology as my field of interest.

My driving force is the gratification I get from positively impacting the lives of my patients, being able to be a part of their healing process and most importantly educating them of their illness, so that they can take charge and take better care of themselves.

I aim to contribute to a safer and healthier society in return for every bit of opportunity it offers me; to be free, inspired and instrumental.
