When I was an adolescent, I was perusing my father's medical textbook collection and found so many disciplines that inspired curiosity. My father, being a physician himself, was always invigorated and enthused about one element of his practice: his relationship with his patients. Inevitably, it was the power of human connection that inspired me to pursue Medicine.

We have the privilege and honor of treating a diverse population with acute and chronic kidney disease states which allows us to forge long lasting relationships with our patients. Dallas Renal Group is an innovative group of healthcare providers that prides ourselves in implementing excellent clinical care and building long lasting relationships.

My philosophy is simple: treat your patients how you would treat your own family member; only then the relationships and trust you develop with one another can last a lifetime.
