My mother always had a great influence on my interests and aspirations. It was her unfulfilled dream to be a doctor that sparked my initial interest in medicine. From there, I participated in medical volunteering programs. This opportunity to connect with people and help them lead healthier lives solidified my desire to pursue medicine.

I love having the opportunity to develop strong relationships with my patients. I enjoy hearing about their families, background, and interesting stories. Kidney disease is often a chronic condition, and I am privileged to help my patients manage it.

I promise my patients personalized, timely and comprehensive care. It is important to me to spend time with my patients and always be their advocate. I believe that the best solution for any symptom comes from listening to the patient and understanding their needs.
